A PIECE OF WIRE

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PULASKL VA., Jan. 18.—Thomas Silvers, a citizen of Pulaskt, committed suicide Saturday by hanging. He had been in poor health and was out of a job, and the two together are supposed to have unbalanced his mind and caused him to kill himself. He went to the stable, tied some hay wire around a rafter, got a box, put the wire around his neck and jumped off the box, and died from strangulation. His wife has been dead only a short time. He leaves four or five children, the oldest one, Everett, being about eighteen years old.

Culpeper People Turn Out in Full Force at Closing Term.

(Special to The Times-Lispatch.) CULPEPER, VA., Jan. 18.—To-day was the last session of Culpeper County Court under the old Constitution, and it seemed as if all the people in the county were in town to speed the parting with the old order of things and hall the coming of the new regime.

Many were the regrets of people expressed at the abolition of the monthly County Court system, which brought for so many years so many friends and neighbors to town to see each other and to exchange happy greetings.

Nothing of importance was done in the County Court except some public road matters, everything remaining being certified to the incoming Circuit Court for the county, which will be held once every two months.

In the County Court there was an order entered appointing the old county poor superintendent. Mr. John Chattuck, for another term of four years.

The Board of County Supervisors recommended for the position some days ago Mr. John Burke, but the county judge refused to confirm their preference.

THE FEBRUARY DELINEATOR.

Those who read The Delineator primarily for its fushion information will find the February number one of uncommon interest and value. Mrs. Osboru's letter on the fashions in Now York will be generally appreciated, and there are, in addition, illustrated articles on materials, trimmings and millimery, and more than sixty exquisite winter styles depicted. Of intense interest to women in another direction is Dr. Grace Peckham Murray's article on the care of the complexion. Such a scientific treatise, simply and enlighteningly presented, is of the greatest benefit to women who wish to enhance their personal charm by good looks. Other features of the number are a strikingly illustrated article descriptive of Calve's home life, an inspiring paper, by Lillie Hamilton Fronch, in the "Joy of Living" series pages for lovers of nature and for collectors of antiquities, and bright stories by clever writers, in addition to a chapter of the much discussed serial, The Froduction of a Club Woman. There are also entertaining stories and pastimes for cellidrep, and much practical information for home noeds, THE FEBRUARY DELINEATOR.

A SIN AGAINST ATHLETIC MORALS

College Topics Comes Back at Caspar Whitney in Outing.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CHARLOTTSVILLE, VA., Jan. 18.-In the January Outing, Caspar Whitney, in his review of the foot-ball season of 1903, makes a severe criticism of athletics as conducted at the University of Virginia and at other Southern colleges. To-day's issue of "College Topics," the organ of the athletic authorities at the University of Virginia, comes back at Mr. Whitney in a leading editorial. It says in part:

"Mr. Whitney assumes the position of athletic censor of this country. It is not our purpose to criticise him for his efforts in this respect, yet we wish to call his attention to one thing that is essential to the success of his attempt. He mus be accurate in his statements and careful as to his information. doubt.

The symptoms were irregular for chicken-pox and so Dr. Williams called in Dr. McGuire Newton. These two physicians called in Dr. Paulis A. Irving. The three physicians were still in doubt, but were of the opinion that the indications pointed more to smallpox than anything else. Sunday afternon Dr. John N. Upshur saw Mr. Anderson, and said the case was chicken-pox, developing irregularly. In the meantime Drs. Oppenheimer and Hoge, of the Board of Health, heimer and riogs, or the had heard the report, and Sunday afternoon they saw Mr. Anderson. They agreed with Dr. Upshur fully, and so did Dr. W. E. Anderson, of Farmville, brother of the sick man. Dr. Anderson brother of the siek mail. Dr. Anderson stated the corroborative circumstance that his sister had recently had the chicken-pox and doubtless she and her brother had caught it from the same source. The positive statements of the four physicians did much to allay the alarm felt by the residents of the aparticust house and as Mr. Anderson has alarm felt by the residents of the space-ment house, and as Mr. Anderson has continued to improve, a. disturbed feet-ings are suleted.
